Training program
(English Material)

Course Length: Three full days (8 hours)

NLP in Business and Management

- Learn tools to help you write an achievable goal, handle successful communications, identify your preferences and other people preferences so you can tune in easily to their systems.
- Develop new techniques for negotiating, influencing people, training, presenting and convincing.
- Extend and fine-tune your influence and especially your ability to communicate, coach, lead and motivate.
- Develop the skills and behavioral flexibility essential for coping with today's flatter corporate structures, cross-functional responsibilities, team structures, and remote management.
- Learn state of the art tools for helping you identify your best calibers, and orient your potential employees towards areas where they achieve their maximum potential.
